

ERNST – PRESS RELEASE

New ERNST web site. More information. More service.

Hagen, 04 November 2005 – The ERNST web site has been completely done over and includes many additional contents and functions. A hint to all distributors and repair shops: visit ERNST in the Internet – there are many new things to discover!

On the very first click you'll notice the tidied-up design and clear layout of the web site. Black is no longer the dominant colour – in the new site a bright, friendly white invites you to surf through the site. Orientation is made easy by the clear navigation system.

Under the "Products" button visitors find complete, comprehensible information on the operation, engineering and premium quality of silencers, catalysts and mounting parts. The Sports section has a special feature for all rallye sound fans: a comfortable search function enabling them to find the sport silencer that fits their car. All they have to do is enter the vehicle data.

In the News section distributors and repair shops have the latest data and facts at their fingertips, e.g., current product trends or marketing activities.

The Service section was supplemented by new download options for brochures and leaflets.
